

Unwavering Dedication TO QUALITY THERMOFORMING

Strengthening Our Global Positioning

One of our goals is to develop high-performance quality thermoformed packaging that our customers can confidently rely on. This approach requires fostering continuous dialog and working alongside all of our customers and collaborating to develop packaging that meets or exceeds their expectations.

Prent's global growth is not only fueled by industry trends but also customer needs and increased quality expectations. Regardless of geographic location, we have positioned ourselves to provide maximum quality focus and place great emphasis on nurturing relationships with all of our customers, in all regions.

Spotlight On Prent Denmark

With growing business in the European market, we have added resources to our Prent Denmark location. This includes expanding our sales to support a growing customer base and enhancing our quality management team to drive continued focus on customer satisfaction and improved performance in all aspects of our business.

"To best serve our global customers, additions to our workforce allow us to further strengthen our design and development initiatives," said Dave Henry, Vice President of Quality. "Prent recognizes the importance of integrating quality discipline in everything we do and accept nothing short of meeting our customers' expectations."

We put a strong emphasis on producing consistent, high-quality products. With expansion in the medical market and increased validation requirements, rigorous processes and reliability are critical.

Spotlight On Prent Denmark

As part of our commitment to quality, we will continue to deploy the necessary resources to support continuous improvement, and aim to exceed both internal and external quality requirements.

In addition to product protection, Prent's medical packaging and trays act as part of the sterile barrier of a final part or product. With every customer having individual product specifications and validation requirements, our data management and production processes demand comprehensive, risk-based filters to ensure effectiveness.

Integrated Quality Discipline

Prent Denmark is a full-service thermoforming center boasting Class 8 clean rooms and on-site design and tool build support. Like all of Prent's thermoforming centers, Prent Denmark is also equipped with matched equipment to achieve 100% traceability and repeatability.

The quality team in Denmark shares a wealth of in-depth industry knowledge and expertise and leverages the power of a global network of medical packaging professionals to optimize and deliver a platform of services that cannot be matched. We recognize the knowledge we gain from each other helps us create new and better solutions. With eight global manufacturing locations, collaborating and best practice sharing across all of our sites is critical. Our customers and OEMs can partner with confidence knowing that every phase of our process is matched, aligned, and validated.

"Prent recognizes the importance of integrating quality discipline in everything we do and accept nothing short of meeting our customers' expectations."
